SANTA FE, N.M.– August 28, 2020--On September 5, 2020, Towa Golf Club at Buffalo Thunder Resort will open a disc golf course on its scenic Boulder nine. A joint effort between Buffalo Thunder Resort and the New Mexico disc golf community, the 20-hole layout will be a must play for locals and travelers alike. Disc golfers may reserve tee times on Mondays and Saturdays between 2-4 pm and can be booked online at <https://www.hiltonbuffalothunder.com/golf.html>. New guests need to create an account and change the “Facility” option at the top of the screen to “Disc Golf.” Green fees to play disc golf at Towa Golf Club will be $15 and a cart rental will be an additional $15. The mobile app UDisc (<https://udisc.com/>) will provide players with a GPS map of the layout and a virtual scorecard.

Towa General Manager Linda Howell says of the new disc golf course, “As a popular destination resort, Buffalo Thunder is always looking to add activities that everyone can enjoy in order to offer a more inclusive atmosphere. In addition to tennis, pickleball, disc golf will offer another recreation option for all skill levels. Our 20-hole Disc Golf course will be accessible and playable for all of our resort guests and the public on Monday and Saturday afternoons. Additionally, starter disc sets will be available for purchase in the Clubhouse.”

Located in the dramatic scenery of northern New Mexico's Pojoaque Valley just 12 miles north of the Santa Fe plaza, Towa's disc golf course challenges players with dramatic elevation changes, seasonal weather conditions, and the extraordinary beauty of the Sangre de Cristo mountains. The Boulder nine opened in 2001, was designed by William Phillips, and features amazing rock formations and the only island green in New Mexico.
